Publisher: Elsevier Ltd.

Publication Place: Amsterdam, Netherlands

ISSN: 02642751

Subscription Type: Online Only

Link: <https://www.sciencedirect.com/journal/cities>

Description: Cities publishes articles on many aspects of urban planning and policy. It distinguishes itself by providing an international and interdisciplinary platform for the exchange of ideas and information among urban planners, policy makers and analysts, and urbanists from all disciplines. The primary aims of the journal are to analyze and assess past and present urban development and management as a reflection of effective, ineffective, and non-existent planning policies, and the promotion of the implementation of appropriate urban policies in both the developed and the developing world. Topics covered include: urban adaptation to climate change; gentrification and housing; homelessness and welfare services; urban management; public-private sector cooperation; development and planning problems; urban regeneration; neighborhood conservation and urban design; immigration and international labor migration; urban politics; urban theory; urban governance; smart cities and regions; infrastructure; livability and quality of life; greening; and the complexities of creating sustainable cities. Every year, we also publish a handful of Viewpoints. These are articles that are shorter in nature, summative in their literature review, and offer a particular argument that could potentially generate debates among scholars and practitioners. Each volume also features one or more City Profiles. Coverage includes a brief description of the city's historical development, an account of contemporary conditions, problems or issues, and a critical review of recent or current policy, planning or management responses.

The Indian Forester (founded in 1875)
Oldest International Peer Reviewed Forestry Journal

9. Title: Indian Forester

Publisher: Scientific Publishers of India

Publication Place: Dehradun

ISSN: 0019-4816

Subscription Type: Print

Link: <http://www.indianforester.co.in/index.php/indianforester/about>

Description: The Indian Forester, a pioneer journal in the field of Forestry Research established in 1875 has been serving the cause of Scientific Forestry Research since its inception. It is closely associated with the continuous advancement of forestry and is a storehouse of information for those who want to indulge deep into the progress of forestry in the country. The Indian Forester is indeed a milestone not only in the history of Indian Forestry but also that of International Forestry Scenario. The first issue of The Indian Forester was brought out in July 1875, initially as a quarterly and later from January 1883 as a monthly journal. The Indian Forester was printed and published by the Pioneer Press, Allahabad till March 1932. Its assets and records were frozen in Pakistan, and it was only after many crises and trials that it was finally put on a secure basis in India. The Indian Forester has always endeavored to provide its readers, the information regarding the latest research and developments in the country on topical issues by bringing out special issues on topics such as conservation, Eucalyptus, earth summit, wild life, vegetative propagation, biodiversity, sustainable development, teak (Tectona grandis), wild life conservation, neem, agro-forestry, participatory forestry management, wild life protection, environment, poplar, wood, energy, social forestry, bamboo, medicinal plants and climate change. As to our principles, they are decidedly liberal and independent. We, and all who communicate with us, are free to express what they think; we shall not repress any criticism on what we honestly believe to be wrong or say anything that we do not believe to be true, to please anyone. But free, full, and unfettered discussion of every principle and practice is the very life of forest science and forest art. The Indian Forester is a fountain of information and learning which nourishes and enlightens the entire communities of foresters and scientists on scientific forestry and allied disciplines in the country. During its career of 140 years, it has taken an honorable place as one of the world's pioneers in scientific forestry.

12. Title: International Journal of Urban and Regional Research

Publisher: Wiley-Blackwell Publishing Ltd.

Publication Place: United Kingdom

ISSN: 0309-1317

Subscription Type: Print +Online

Link: <https://onlinelibrary.wiley.com/journal/14682427>

Description: A groundbreaking forum for intellectual debate, IJURR is at the forefront of urban and regional research. With a cutting-edge approach to linking theoretical development and empirical research, and a consistent demand for quality, IJURR encompasses key material from an unparalleled range of critical, comparative, and geographic perspectives. Embracing a multidisciplinary approach to the field, IJURR is essential reading for social scientists with a concern for the complex, changing roles and futures of cities and regions. Debates: The Debates section of IJURR presents shorter, sometimes contentious papers on recent developments in the field --- policy, practice, and theory --- and occasional coverage of truly groundbreaking convocations, mobilizations, and reports. This section aims to create a space for provocation, critical reflection, heuristic propositions, and initial reports on the use of new methodologies. It also features debates centered on articles published in this journal that have prompted controversy, conceptual breakthroughs, and strong opinion among IJURR's readership. Symposia: An IJURR symposium is expected to present a coherent and well-grounded (both empirically and conceptually) collection of articles. With the aim of bringing fresh perspectives and insights to urban and regional debates, symposia comprise a minimum of three and a maximum of six articles, allowing for an in-depth and comparative exploration of an important urban theme or concept. A symposium proposal must be submitted in the first instance for consideration by the editors. Symposium proposals will be considered only if they adhere to the symposium proposal guidelines, available here. Book Reviews: IJURR's review section provides an informed, critical overview of the most important new publications and relevant, less obvious books that should not be overlooked. Spanning a wide subject and geographic area, this section is a reliable and valuable resource for researchers.

13. Title: Journal of Infrastructure Development

Publisher: Sage Publications Ltd.

Publication Place: India

ISSN: 0974-9306

Subscription Type: Print +Online

Link: <https://journals.sagepub.com/home/JOI>

Description: The purpose of this peer-reviewed journal is to carry out informed public debates on infrastructure policy, given that in most developing countries, infrastructure is as much related to policy as it is to markets. This journal provides a platform for healthy trade and debate regarding new ideas in the infrastructure sector. The journal looks at issues and concerns regarding infrastructure in India and in other countries in the world. Infrastructure includes physical, social, economic, and financial infrastructure as well as what we can loosely term market infrastructure (enabling environments like extension services in agriculture and proper commercial laws). The journal also looks at infrastructure issues specific to other countries at present but that may be relevant to India later.

design and culture

THE JOURNAL OF THE DESIGN STUDIES FORUM

1. Title: Design and Culture

Publisher: Taylor and Francis Ltd.

Publication Place: United Kingdom

ISSN: 1754-7075

Subscription Type: Print + Online

Link: <https://www.tandfonline.com/journals/rfdc20>

Description: Design and Culture reflects the state of scholarship in the field of design and nurtures new or overlooked lines of inquiry that redefine our understanding of design. The editors invite design scholars and practitioners to think critically about social justice, exclusion, and privilege, and imagine the journal as a forum that can foster rich and provocative conversations across power-differentiated communities, geographic distance, and disciplinary divides. We strongly encourage the submission of rigorously researched papers that show how design is deeply engaged with socio-political and cultural issues, and we encourage submissions about the scope of design, broadly defined, in regions marked by conditions of austerity, poverty, or under embargo, papers of maintenance and repair, and works on the invisible labor of design in domains of social reproduction. We also welcome scholarship from affiliated fields that - although perhaps not identifying directly with design discourse - investigate material culture, practices, and the science/status of the artificial through lenses of indigenous epistemologies, intersectional analyses of power and science and technology studies, among others. As design increasingly extends its immaterial, conceptual, and strategic forms, we envisage Design and Culture as a platform where scholars and practitioners from a range of fields can question the ramparts of design practice, research, and discourse. Besides scholarly papers and reviews, we also encourage the submission of interviews, round table conversations, and statements of pedagogy and practice.

The Journal of Modern Craft

2. Title: Journal of Modern Craft

Publisher: Taylor and Francis Ltd.

Publication Place: United Kingdom

ISSN: 1749-6772

Subscription Type: Print + Online

Link: <https://www.tandfonline.com/journals/rfmc20>

Description: The Journal of Modern Craft is the first peer-reviewed academic journal to provide an interdisciplinary and international forum in its subject area. It addresses all forms of making that self-consciously set themselves apart from mass production—whether in the making of designed objects, artworks, buildings, or other artefacts. The journal covers craft in all its historical and contemporary manifestations, from the mid-nineteenth century, when handwork was first consciously framed in opposition to industrialization, through to the present day, when ideas once confined to the “applied arts” have come to seem vital across a huge range of cultural activities. Special emphasis is placed on studio practice, and on the transformations of indigenous forms of craft activity throughout the world. The journal also reviews and analyses the relevance of craft within new media, folk art, architecture, design, contemporary art, and other fields. The Journal of Modern Craft is the main scholarly voice about craft, conceived both as an idea and as a field of practice.
