Monsoon Semester 2018. Welcome!

The Library team welcomes all Students and Faculty to the Lilavati Lalbhai Library.

For those of you who are new on Campus we are available to help you find your way around. The Library contains a unique collection of books, periodicals and theses that are all there for your use. We are also happy for you to use the space to study alone or in groups. It is basically accessible 7 days a week, please check at the desk for opening hours which will vary according to the time of the semester.

For us at the library we are very happy to be entering our second year in this splendid new building and we are planning many new and different activities to make the most of the space.

What’s New

There will be a series of significant exhibitions highlighting excellence across all the disciplines taught on the Campus. Along with these will be related lectures and workshops.

As many of you know the library also comes out to meet you with our “on the Ramp” exhibitions of new arrivals which take place regularly during the semester. We will also be having specialized exhibitions for each faculty which we will let you know about.

By popular demand the Newspapers are about to return to the canteen where they will be available to be read with your first – or second – cup of chai every morning. Thanks to the Furniture Design Students a suitable storage rack is being arranged.

As this is your library we depend on your input and feedback to know what we can do better for you. Please feel free to contact us.
